

Court Ruling in Favour of A-GAS

A-GAS (South Africa) (Pty) Ltd recently were successful in obtaining a court interdict against Power Compressor Exchange Holdings for the infringement of the eight registered marks of A-GAS as well as the passing off of its C-Gas product.

In terms of the Court Order, effective from 6 December 2011, PCE may no longer use the C-Gas trade mark to distribute, sell, trade or advertise the products bearing the C-Gas trade mark or any trade mark confusingly similar to the A-GAS trade mark and furthermore, cannot use a product get-up which is confusingly similar to the A-GAS products.

At no time has A-GAS had any affiliation with the C-Gas product/brand name and we would like to end the confusion this has caused in the air conditioning and refrigeration industry.

A-GAS is an international group of companies with headquarters in the United Kingdom and trading subsidiaries in the UK, South Africa, Australia, South East Asia, China and the Americas. All A-GAS products and services offered in South Africa meet and/or comply with the following standards and legal requirements:

- ISO 9001:2000
- ISO 14001:2004
- All pressure receptacles are compliant with local legislation – SANS 10019:2011 Edition 7.
- AHRI 700 standards

A-GAS takes pride in our products, services and the A-GAS brand name. A-GAS will continue our commitment to the industry by continuing to supply quality product, excellent service and due care when it comes to our environment.
